Histiocytosis UK

Introduction

Despite the misery it causes, Histiocytosis is too rare a disease to have generated substantial research in medical circles. Unfortunately, for every child or adult fighting for his or her life, the pain and suffering are just as severe for children and adults afflicted with other better known disorders receiving funding.

For the children and adults battling these illnesses, there is now reason to hope. To ensure the research continues, we ask for your help, to complete the funding puzzle.

Our awareness and research programmes provide a beacon of hope for the many children and adults battling Histiocytosis, to ensure this research continues we ask you to pledge your support.

WHAT IS HISTIOCYTOSIS

What is Histiocytosis?

Histiocytosis is an umbrella term applied to a group of rare diseases, characterised by increased numbers of white blood cells called histiocytes in the blood and tissues. In all forms of histiocytosis, these cells, which are part of the protective immune system, begin to attack the body, targeting many organs of the body including the bone marrow, liver, spleen, lungs, skin, bone and brain.

The prognosis for patients varies greatly depending on the form of histiocytosis.

Please be advised that all the information you read in this document is not a replacement for the advice you will get from your consultant and their team.

Who we are?

Histiocytosis UK is a registered charity dedicated to promoting and funding scientific research into uncovering not only the causes of all histiocytic diseases, which include Langerhans Cell Histiocytosis and Haemophagocytic Lymphohistiocytosis, but also ensuring early diagnosis, effective treatment and a cure.

The Charity aims to support patients and their families by means of information and awareness as well as raise public and professional awareness of histiocytic disorders. Its team of Trustees include the UK's leading paediatric LCH and HLH specialists.

Why Volunteer?

Why volunteer for Histio UK?

For many, volunteering with Histio UK is a chance to do something positive to help support children, young people and adults with histiocytosis, and their families.

Volunteers enable us to do so much through raising vital funds, providing additional services and offering their own skills and expertise.

Volunteering is also a great opportunity to gain new skills, meet new people and experience working in the third sector

Supporting our volunteers

Histio UK offers an excellent volunteering experience.

Our volunteers work closely with our teams in friendly, welcoming environments and are offered high quality support, as well as training and resources relevant to their role.

This ensures our volunteers are able to benefit from the time they give, whilst helping to support children, young people and adults with histiocytosis, and their families.
